Brotherhood of Trainmen Back On the Job Today

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Trains were rolling again today as court orders ended a one-day strike against six mid-continent railroads.

An estimated 5,000 members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen walked out early Monday, stopping traffic and freight-handling on the lines.

Bus Plunges Into Lake Killing Six

Barges Smash Gap In Longest Bridge Near New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—Two barges crashed into the world's longest bridge before dawn today, dropping a passing Trailways bus into Lake Pontchartrain. Six bus passengers died.

The bus fell in 15 feet of water. Skindivers dove in to help recover bodies. A Coast Guard helicopter airlifted four survivors to hospitals.

The bus plunged into shallow water as 200 feet of the concrete roadway crumpled. The driver and an Army sergeant were rescued by a teen-ager who jumped into the mirror-calm lake. A Coast Guard helicopter flew the survivors to hospitals.

Divers recovered six bodies. Hours later, a spokesman for the bridge commission said an inspection showed the bus was on the span at the instant the heavy barges crashed into four sections of the bridge. The concrete bridge and the bus plunged into 15 feet of water.

No one would say how the barges, pushed by a towboat, hit the causeway—a brightly lighted highway on stilts across the 24-mile wide lake. Visibility was clear.

The Jefferson Parish coroner's office said the bodies of five men and a woman were recovered.

The bus driver, Ernest Vaughn, 38, Jackson, Miss., was rescued by a swimmer, and hoisted aloft by the helicopter.

Injuries In Accident That Happened Sunday Are Fatal

Injuries sustained in a head-on auto collision Sunday on Route 135 just south of Stover proved fatal Tuesday to Mrs. Lisle (Dorothy) Hites, 44, Prairie Village, Kan. She died at 11:30 a.m. at Bothwell Hospital where she had been hospitalized since the crash.

Mrs. Hites suffered internal injuries in the accident and required major surgery shortly after she was hospitalized.

Her husband, Lisle P., is reported in fair condition at the hospital.

Surviving besides her husband are two sons, Michael and Lisle S., both of Kansas City; two daughters, Linda and Laurie, of the home; and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Seward, Kansas City.

The body was taken to the Gillespie Funeral Home here and is to be transferred to the Newcomer Funeral Chapel at Overland Park, Kan.

Railroad attorneys quickly obtained temporary restraining orders in federal district courts, banning strikes and picketing.

Pickets at the Sedalia Missouri-Pacific depot were called off at 7 p. m. Monday — 13 hours after the strike was called at 6 a. m. Monday. No passengers were tied up here since no trains were delayed in Sedalia. Some would-be passengers sought other means of transportation.

Union officials said the men were returning to work as the orders were served, but one official said the strike would resume when the restraining orders expire.

Injunction hearings are set for late this week and next week.

The stoppage affected Tennessee, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Texas, Louisiana and Colorado.

The railroads are the Missouri Pacific, Missouri-Kansas-Texas (Katy), Texas & Pacific, the Texas and Louisiana lines of the Southern Pacific, the Texas - Mexican railway, and the Houston Port Terminal Association railroad.

Return to Normal At Lake After Flood Damages

OSAGE BEACH, Mo. (AP)—An official of the Lake of the Ozarks Association reported today the resort area is back to normal after heavy weekend rains that disrupted travel in some places.

Washout of a bridge on Indian Creek Road Sunday stranded about 80 people at two resorts for about 24 hours but Bob Shaidnagle, executive director of the association, said temporary repairs had put the bridge back into service. Roads that were damaged also have been repaired.

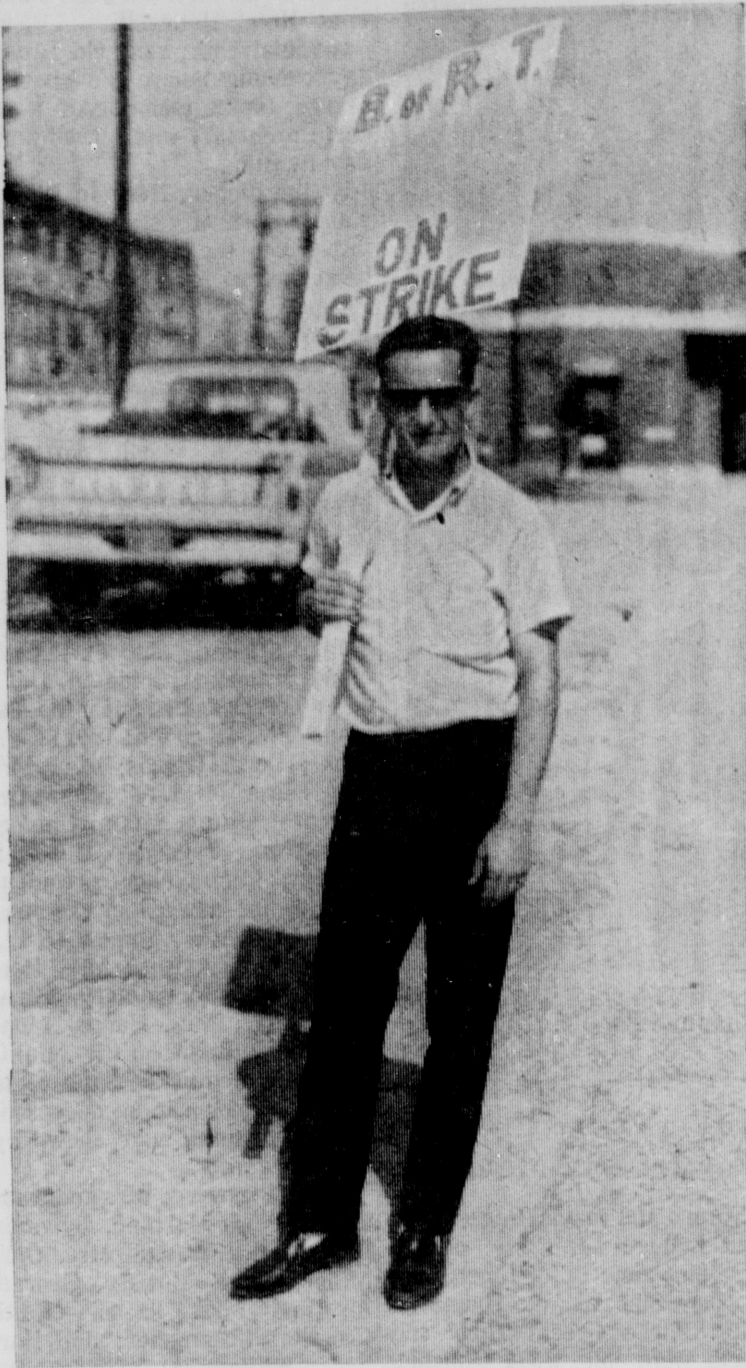

Shaidnagle said that while all 12 floodgates at Bagnell Dam were partially opened at the peak of the inflow, he expected them all to be closed by Friday.

Bulletin

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House passed Tuesday a $4,325,969,200 Public Works Appropriation bill for the fiscal year starting July 1. The 360-11 roll call vote sent the measure to the Senate.

There was no change from the amounts recommended last week by the Appropriations Committee to finance rivers and harbors and flood control programs, the atomic energy commission, and several other activities.

The total was $46,479,800 less than President Johnson had requested.

SEDALIA DEPOT PICKET — When 5,000 railroad trainmen over the nation walked out early Monday, three pickets appeared at the Missouri-Pacific depot in Sedalia. They were members of Local 738, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. With the picket sign here declaring the Brotherhood on strike is Robert S. Wicks, 403 West 22nd. Wicks is a brakeman. The strike was an aftermath of the recent disagreement over railroad work rules. Federal restraining orders ended the one-day strike. (Democrat-Capital photo)

Board Is Abolished

Airport Will Be Run By Committee

By D. Kelly Scruton

The City Council, Monday night, abolished the Sedalia Memorial Airport Board after several weeks' hassle with Mayor L. L. Studer, regarding the proposed re-appointment as recommended by the mayor. In one ordinance the board was abolished. In a second, the job of airport manager — providing for appointment by the board under the old ordinance — was abolished. A third ordinance put the airport under jurisdiction of council's buildings and grounds committee, and the hiring of the manager was placed under the mayor and city council.

Mayor Studer had said prior to the council meeting that he had been requested by the council sometime ago to ask all board members of various boards of the city if they were willing to serve again. He contacted the three airport board members whose terms ended this year and asked them about serving again. They all agreed. They were James T. Denny, Al Gardner and D. Kelly Scruton, the latter who was chairman.

Later, it was reported, council could not agree on Scruton, and although the vote was divided in their own private caucus, they had a gentleman's agreement to vote together on the council floor on the appointment.

The mayor insisted on presenting all three names and received the permission of Scruton, who later insisted he desired to have his name placed before the council and let them vote him down. The mayor also indicated his refusal to submit the name the council had given him in place of Scruton, and indicated he would hold up the appointment of the three members. Thus the council's hands were tied until the impasse was resolved by council's method of abolishing the board.

After the first ordinance was read which repealed the revised ordinance of 1958 regarding the board and its activities, it was unanimously passed; then the second, which repealed the appointment of the manager by the board of commissioners, was unanimously passed; the third ordinance was then introduced which placed the responsibilities on the public buildings and grounds committee of the council and the hiring of the manager under the mayor and city council. The manager is to be named by the mayor with the approval of the council.

When the ordinance to abolish the airport board was read Mayor Studer asked for a roll

Arraign Four On Charges Of Break-ins

Four young defendants charged here with second degree burglary and stealing were arraigned in Magistrate Court Tuesday morning before Judge Frank Armstrong and their preliminary hearing was set for Thursday, June 25.

Charged are Roger D. McGinnis, 17, Beaman; John Angel, 17, Green Ridge; Phyllis Collins, 20, 620 North Grand; and Mrs. Delilah Trimble, 18, 508 North Prospect.

Miss Collins and Mrs. Trimble were arrested early Monday morning in accompaniment with a 16-year-old juvenile boy by City Marshal Ira Homan at Ottumwa. They were in a car owned by William Trimble, husband of the Trimble woman, who is being held in the county jail in lieu of bond on a check charge.

Two young men observed breaking a window at Blakesley's Grocery in Ottumwa escaped Marshal Homan and were later arrested near Beaman by Sheriff Emmett Fairfax and Deputy Virgil Morris. They were identified by sheriffs officers as McGinnis and Angel. Sheriff Fairfax and Cooper County Sheriff Lyburn Mann questioned McGinnis and Angel Monday and obtained statements which the officers said

Quake Jars Japan

Count 21 Dead; Damages Costly

TOKYO (AP)—A tremendous earthquake set off fires and caused millions of dollars in damage today to Niigata, major port city in northern Japan. Eight persons were killed, two were missing and 108 injured by the quake that jolted the city for 2½ minutes. Police listed the over-all toll in the stricken northern Japan area including Niigata at 21 dead, 2 missing and 129 injured.

It was the third disaster to strike Niigata in two decades. The important industrial-commercial city of 290,000 was destroyed by a U.S. air raid in the closing days of World War II. The city was rebuilt, only to be leveled by a fire in October, 1955.

The tremor — strongest in Japan since the catastrophic quake of 1923 wiped out Tokyo and Yokohama—hit a vast area of the main Japanese island of Honshu at 1:01 p.m.

Sending a massive ground wave through 10 northern prefectures with a total population of 15 million, it left behind a trail of dead and suffering, flaming industrial installations, broken highways and railways and ugly fissures in the countryside.

Word from Niigata remained fragmentary tonight. But an emergency telecast from the stricken city showed blazing oil tanks, a destroyed bridge and an eight-story hospital tilting on its shattered foundation.

Explosions could be heard in the background as the pictures flashed on screens in Tokyo.

Shortage of water made it impossible to fight flames from burning oil tanks. There was fear that oil spreading over the waterfront and lowland areas might ignite.

Besides Niigata, the hardest hit cities were Murakami, Mizuhashi, Mitsuke, and Toyosaka. Damage was not as heavy as in Niigata, which was without gas, water, electricity or normal telegraph and telephone communications.

The Weather

Generally fair tonight with little change in temperature tonight. Low tonight 55 to 60. Wednesday increasing cloudiness with showers and thundershowers spreading into the area during the afternoon. High temperature Wednesday 82 to 88. Winds tonight east to southeast 8 to 15 mph.

The temperature Tuesday was 68 at 7 a.m., and 80 at noon. Low Monday night, 66.

The temperature one year ago today was high 74; low 59; two years ago, high 88; low 62; three years ago, high 70; low 51.

Scranton Met By Shouting Barry Group

'We Want Barry' Cries Ring At Visit to Topeka

TOPEKA (AP) — Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania carried his quest for Republican presidential nomination into Kansas today only to be greeted by a small but highly vocal group supporting the candidacy of Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

Scranton received a warm welcome from a majority of the 200 people who were on hand at the Topeka municipal airport when his campaign plane touched down.

But the Goldwater group, numbering about 20, shouted the Scranton supporters with a "We want Barry" chant.

Scranton paid no apparent attention to the Goldwater group as he shook hands with well-wishers.

A recent poll of the 20 delegates from Kansas to the Republican national convention showed two committed to Goldwater, five favoring Goldwater but not committed, one favoring Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York but not committed, and 12 voicing no preference.

However, James E. Woodson of Topeka, who had favored Rockefeller, said Monday, on hearing of Rockefeller's withdrawal from the race, that he would throw his support to Scranton.

Mrs. Thelma Bruning of Kansas City said she was one of a group of Republican precinct committee members from Wyandotte County who were here "to cheer Scranton to be governor of Pennsylvania." She wore a large Goldwater button.

Eldon Woman Dies In Traffic Accident

ELDON, Mo. (AP)—A woman was killed in a traffic accident a mile north of Eldon at the junction of U.S. 54 and Missouri 87 Monday.

Dead is Mabel Helen Meyers, 79, of Eldon. She was dead on arrival at a Jefferson City hospital.

The other driver, Marshal Doyle Flippo, 36, of Abilene, Tex., was treated for minor injuries and released.

Troopers said the Meyers woman attempted a left turn at the intersection when the collision occurred.

In Supreme Court Ruling

More Equal Voice For City Voters

WASHINGTON (AP) — Practically every state in the union faced today an explosive change in its lawmaking and politics which should eventually give city voters a more equal voice in their state governments.

The Supreme Court, arguing that "legislatures represent people, not trees or acres," decreed Monday that seats in both houses of every state legislature must be apportioned by population.

The decision held unconstitutional the division of representation in six states—Virginia, Maryland, New York, Delaware, Alabama and Colorado—but foreshadowed a similar holding in as many as 40 other states.

Reaction was swift and noisy — joy from urban leaders and outrage from state's righters and rural - dominated legislatures.

Both Republicans and Democrats, digging into voting and population charts, figured the decision would help them.

All agreed that rural residents who for generations have held a disproportionate share of voting power in most states, would be the losers.

The problem pondered in statehouses today was what to do. Special sessions of the legislatures may be needed in some cases. Fortunately the court gave time for planning and preparations. It ruled that action on the decision need not be taken before this year's general elections Nov. 3.

But it noted that in Maryland's case it does not have a

Amendments Are Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Southern senators dashed the hopes of Senate leaders to complete action today on amendments to the civil rights bill.

After a caucus of the Dixie forces, Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., told newsmen that such talk was "fantastic." In his opinion, he said, it would not be possible.

Prior to the meeting of the Southern foes of the bill, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., had said he saw a very good chance that voting on amendments would be completed by tonight.

Humphrey, floor manager of the bill, said that if the Southerners insisted on bringing up a large number of additional amendments, the Senate would stay in session late into the night in an effort to dispose of them.

Rocky Bows to Scranton

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller called a meeting today of his campaign leaders "from all parts of the country" to confer on his withdrawal from the race for the Republican presidential nomination in favor of Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania.

In his brief announcement late Monday, the New York governor said he was not releasing any delegates at that time "because of the necessity for consultation with delegates pledged to me by law or otherwise and for technical reasons."

An Associated Press survey indicated Rockefeller and Scranton each had 125 first-ballot delegates. Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, who defeated Rockefeller in the California primary, had 618. A total of 655 is needed for nomination.

Rockefeller, first to enter the race, told the New York delegation in Albany last Thursday he would "stand all the way as a candidate dedicated to moderate, responsible Republican. Scranton entered the race Friday.

Rockefeller did not use the word "withdraw" in the announcement, distributed at his New York headquarters.

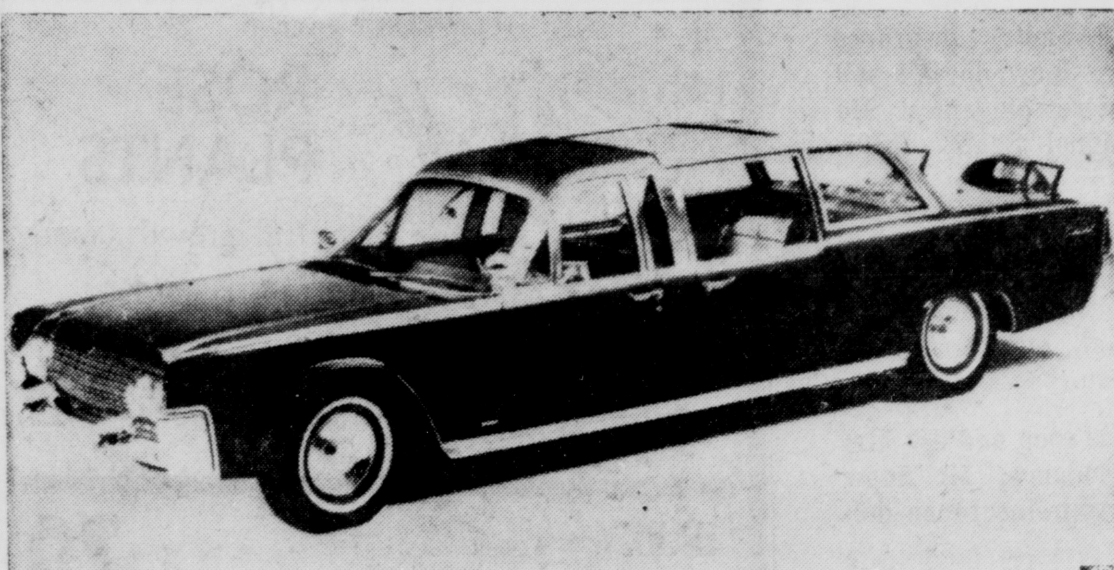

He said that to achieve the objectives of "the adoption of a moderate, forward-looking platform and the nomination of a candidate in the mainstream of American political thought and action and dedicated to such a platform, I have come to the conclusion that the proper course now is for all those who share these views and objectives to support Gov. William W. Scranton for the nomination."

Conceding Nothing

Barry Declares He'll Lead Ticket From Top to Bottom

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater declared today he intends to lead the Republican ticket—from top to bottom—to victory at the polls next November.

Goldwater said he can do the job, no matter what "the doom shouters" say.

"I intend to lead a united party on a platform of principle—the same platform and the same principle in every part of this nation," the front-running Republican presidential contender said in an address prepared for the Texas Republican Convention.

Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton, who plunged into the race for the GOP nomination Friday, argues a Goldwater ticket would spell defeat for Republicans seeking congressional seats, state and local offices.

Out to round up Texas delegates' votes at the Republican National Convention, Goldwater declared: "Whatever the dopesters and pollsters say—whatever we hear from the doom shouters in both parties—I intend to lead all the candidates to victory, North and South, East and West, in November."

"The Republican party can win the South in 1964," Goldwater said. "The Republican party can win the nation in 1964."

"From the courthouse to the Congress, we are going to concede nothing."

Goldwater aides said the senator's congressional supporters, more than 60 strong, will declare at a news conference in Washington Wednesday or Thursday that a ticket topped by the Arizona conservative can best help them win re-election this year.

Goldwater is virtually assured of support from the 56-vote Texas delegation to the national convention. That would push his delegate count to 674—well above the 655 votes he needs to capture the nomination.

Goldwater, in Dallas for a pair of speeches, had little to say about Scranton.

He told a reporter Monday he was not surprised that New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller—his foe in three presidential primaries—had thrown his support to the Pennsylvania governor.

"We'll just have to wait and see" what the result will be, he said.

The Arizona senator assailed President Johnson's fiscal and foreign policies Monday night before some 1,500 cheering Republicans at a $100 a plate dinner.

He said the economic policies Johnson espouses show "that this administration's notion of fiscal responsibility went no deeper than the wheeler-dealer mentality of a card shark."

Goldwater said Johnson's foreign policy is uncertain and "weak-kneed."

He charged this policy is "leading us into World War III as surely as we were led into World War II by the same kind of stupid ineptitude."

Attending as representatives of the Sedalia association were Francis J. Mergen and Eldon C. Leiter.

Administrator Quits Post On Mayor's Request

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)—The St. Joseph city administrator, Robert B. Peart, said Monday night he was asked to resign his $9,600-a-year post by Mayor Arthur J. Meers.

He said the mayor sent word to him last Friday not to report to work Monday.

Peart confirmed reports circulating at city hall that he had either resigned or been fired.

When asked if he had been fired, Peart said, "The mayor and I had a talk some time ago in which he said he thought it would be best for everyone concerned if I resigned."

Asked why he was asked to resign, Peart replied, "The mayor said I wasn't getting things done to suit him. He was very nice to me, but decided this was the thing to do. I had planned to be there today but he sent word to me Friday that it wouldn't be necessary for me to come in."

When advised of Peart's comments, Mayor Meers said they were "accurate," but that he would "reserve comment."

Peart began duties as city administrator June 1, 1962, and was slated for a $600 a year salary increase Aug. 1. He was the first to fill the post created by the new city charter and had previously served as city manager of a number of other cities.

Morbid Type Dramas Lose In Ratings

NEW YORK (AP)—The American viewer still loves television and has made it his boon companion of leisure hours, but he is becoming more selective about what he watches and more critical of what he sees.

While expressing satisfaction with television coverage of real events—news, specials and sports—he was disappointed in the past season's dramatic shows. He found them depressing, morbid, and concentrated on troubled personalities. He yearned for more rollicking escape-type dramatic shows.

That, in essence was the finding in an audience study of over 600 viewers in 14 different areas made by the Chicago firm of Social Research, Inc., reported in the current issue of the trade magazine Broadcasting.

On the happy side of the ledger, the report found the public was grateful for the "incredible array of top-notch, free entertainment available," appreciated its cultural influence, and is not complaining so much these days about the commercials.

On the critical side, it noted the medical, psychiatric and social-illness themes in many dramatic programs—the report called the past year "the sick season"—and expressions of a desire for more shows with the good guys winning over the bad guys—also more physical violence, of all things.

The interviewers also found the audience was not as stimulated as they once were with comedy shows and variety programs. McHugh and Hoffman, the Birmingham, Mich., television-radio consulting firm that commissioned the study, passed on the conclusion that this past season's high ratings of comedy and variety shows were in reality a measure of "how few of this year's television dramas have appealed to the broader American public." The "problem shows," they deduced, sent the viewers flocking to comedy and variety for "refuge and relaxation."

House Panel Okays Fort Scott Project

The office of William J. Randall, Representative from Missouri's Fourth District, has announced the revival of the long dormant Fort Scott Reservoir project. Congressman Randall commented that when the good word came through that the full committee had approved the earlier action of the Public Works Subcommittee, he shouted "Hurray!" so loud that it might have been heard out in Bates and Vernon Counties without the benefit of long distance telephone.

The Congressman emphasized that the $100,000 Fort Scott project was an unbudgeted item. Because it was on the inactive list, the project had not been recommended by the Bureau of the Budget in its request for fiscal year 1965. However, a new cost-benefit ratio showed it was practical to proceed with the project. The importance of House committee action lies in the fact that it is extremely rare for the Appropriations Committee to consider adding any project that has not been previously requested by the President, through the Bureau of the Budget.

Continuing, the Representative indicated why the action of the Public Works Subcommittee is so important. "In the past, House action has proved to be the necessary key to break existing log jams on public works projects," he stated. "The House remains most jealous of the prerogative that bills involving large expenditures must originate in the House. Repeatedly, again and again, the Committee on the Senate side has added planning and construction funds only to have them knocked out when they meet with House Conferees. For this reason, we are much closer to our ultimate goal now that the House Committee has given us the green light."

Randall added that after the good fortune of a Presidential assist on Kaysinger, the proponents of the Fort Scott Reservoir had been fearful that it was doomed for further consideration in Fiscal Year 1965. The fear prevailed that the 4th Missouri Congressional District would be wearing out its welcome and asking for more than its share of Public Works projects. Because the great benefits and advantages are distributed through all of Southern Bates and Northern Vernon Counties, no one could be fooled into saying this was a Kansas project. The actual location of the reservoir is on the Kansas side and will give some municipal water supply benefits for the city of Fort Scott, but the real flood control values all accrue across the Missouri-Kansas state line.

The Congressman observed that we should all be happy that a start has been promised on Kaysinger. The assurance that advanced planning will proceed now for Fort Scott can only be described as "making a good thing even better." The Marais des Cygnes and Osage Rivers are a vital part of the Kaysinger system and the control of these rivers further up in the headwaters provide a more orderly and complete control than could be obtained by the Kaysinger Reservoir alone.

"The success with Fort Scott on top of the success with Kaysinger is sort of like putting icing on an already good cake," he observed.

Randall concluded by saying, "It's a great feeling to realize that despite a delay of several years, the Fort Scott Reservoir project is back on track again. Construction in the next few years seems to be assured just

Funeral March Will Protest Traywick Firing

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—Students of Southwest Missouri State College plan a "funeral march" in Springfield Wednesday to protest the dismissal of Dr. Leland Traywick, college president, by the board of regents.

Jackson Harrell, acting student body president, said that, providing approval is obtained from city officials for the parade, it will be complete with coffin, a hearse and mourners.

The students revised earlier plans to send someone to New York Wednesday to hand a petition to Gov. John Dalton, who will be attending festivities at the Missouri pavilion of the World's Fair.

Harrell said, however, it was felt a public presentation in New York might be embarrassing to the governor and damage student efforts to get Dr. Traywick reinstated.

The governor has agreed to meet with the students at Jefferson City June 25 to discuss the matter.

Bradley Says Road Panel Sufficient

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)—Henry D. Bradley, vice chairman of the Missouri Highway Commission, said today he did not believe expansion of that body would be an improvement.

Lt. Gov. Hilary A. Bush and Secretary of State Warren E. Hearnes, each seeking the Democratic nomination for governor, have advocated adding representation from the St. Louis and Kansas City areas to the commission. That would increase the commission membership from four to six.

"I don't think increasing the membership of the commission to six will improve the actions and decisions of the commission," said Bradley. "It would only take a little longer to arrive at those decisions."

It's popular in both St. Louis and Kansas City to importune the governor to put a local man on the commission when a vacancy occurs. As far as the holdover commissioners have been concerned in the past, none of them has ever voiced disagreement.

"The record, however, shows the commissioners from the hinterlands of Missouri have been deeply concerned with the traffic problems of our two largest cities, and have done their utmost to meet those problems as funds were available."

"My only point is that I don't believe that two more commissioners will add materially to the highway department receipts, but I wish both of the Democratic candidates for governor well in the pursuit of their convictions."

In addition to Bradley, the other commissioners are Harold Treasure, Kennett, Roy E. Mayes Sr., Carthage, and Sam B. Cook, Jefferson City.

Felonious Assault Charge In Shooting

ROLLA, Mo. (AP)—Charges of felonious assault were filed Monday against Mrs. Alma Wilson, 59, in connection with the shooting Saturday of Alvin Hill, 38, at Duke, Mo.

Hill was taken to a Springfield hospital for treatment of a shotgun wound in the leg and is reported in satisfactory condition.

The highway patrol said an argument over the digging of a drainage ditch preceded the shooting.

Hill was digging the ditch outside the Wilson store following a heavy rain when Mrs. Wilson ordered him to stop.

Mrs. Wilson was quoted by investigators as saying she fired a shot from a 20-gauge shotgun at the ground. When Hill threatened her, she said, she raised the gun and fired again. The second shot struck Hill.

Police Station Visit Lands Man In Jail

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A man walked into St. Louis County police headquarters trying to hire workers Monday night and wound up in jail.

James Bradshaw, 40, of St. Louis, who works for a janitorial company, went to the personnel office trying to hire persons who didn't qualify for police training.

Officer Willis Jones recognized Bradshaw as a police character, looked up his record and discovered Bradshaw was wanted for carrying concealed weapon. The officer then searched Bradshaw and found a loaded .22 caliber automatic, police said.

Best Building Down

Workmen and heavy equipment of the Howard Construction Company were nearing completion Tuesday of the razing of the old Best Laundry Building, 122 East Second.

Scrap lumber and rubble were being loaded on to trucks and hauled away.

The building is the last of three structures to be torn down in preparation for the construction of the city's 14th off-street parking lot.

Judge Armstrong set bail bond for the four at $1,000 each and Miss Collins was released on bond signed by Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Collins. The other three defendants were returned to the Pettis County jail in lieu of bond.

Accidents

Mr. and Mrs. Elvis Howerton and daughter, Valerie, 6, injured Sunday evening in a two vehicle collision on State Route 135 south of Stover, are reported to be in fair condition at Bothwell Hospital. Their son, Cary J., 8, suffered a shoulder injury and was not admitted to the hospital.

Howerton, Mrs. Howerton and the daughter all suffered double fractures of their jaws. It was not revealed until Monday that Mrs. Howerton's lower jaw bone was fractured on both sides, as were her husband's and daughter's. All three underwent surgery to have the fractures wired.

Howerton was the driver of a station wagon headed south and collided with a Ford sedan driven by Lisle P. Hites, 46, of Prairie Village, Kan. According to the State Highway Patrol, Hites was passing some cars and was in the southbound lane when his and Howerton's car crashed head-on at the crest of a hill.

Highway 50, two-tenths of a mile east of its junction with Highway 127, was the scene of a two-car collision at approximately 1:55 p.m. Sunday.

Involved were a 1962 Mercury, driven east and attempting a left turn by Jimmy Dale Higgins, 28, Knob Noster, and a 1960 Chevrolet, driven east by Ralph E. Jackson, 18, White-man J.B.

Feister was driven to Bothwell Hospital in a private car by co-workers Charles Alley and Dale Miller and Police Officers Henry Randall and Clarence Harrell escorted the auto in their patrol car.

He sustained a laceration to the mouth and left forehead and complained of back and hip pains. Dr. K. L. Holden treated him and Feister's condition was not immediately available.

He was employed by a crew of men razing the old shops.

A car and a truck sideswiped at 8:45 a.m. Tuesday in front of 1010 Crescent Drive, but no injuries were reported.

Police reports indicated a 1958 Chevrolet driven by Kenneth LeRoy Dawson, 18, Licking, Mo., crossed the centerline and sideswiped a 1964 Chevrolet pickup, being driven in the opposite direction by Lloyd Deuschle, 46, 1632 South Snead.

Assistant Chief of Police Charles Knapp Monday afternoon ordered police not to issue tickets for not displaying city stickers until after 12 midnight Friday, June 19.

The four-day reprieve gives motorists an opportunity to apply the license decals to their windshields.

Hardin received a police summons for careless and imprudent driving and is to appear in police court June 16.

Circuit Court

Mrs. Mable Janette Rahm, Knob Noster, filed notice Monday of intention to seek disqualification of Circuit Judge Frank W. Hayes in the matter of her appeal of a Magistrate Court conviction on a speeding charge.

Mrs. Rahm's petition claims Judge Hayes is prejudiced against her and she would be unable to receive a fair and impartial trial. Hearing on the motion for disqualification is scheduled for June 22 in Circuit Court.

The wife of a Warrensburg attorney, James A. Rahm, the defendant was found guilty of driving 77 m.p.h. on Highway 50 west of LaMonte on Feb. 26, 1963, when the speed limit was 70 m.p.h. Her husband defended her in her trial before Judge Frank Armstrong in Magistrate Court on Aug. 25 last year.

In the Magistrate hearing the Rahms challenged the validity of the Highway Patrol radar unit.

A condemnation case was transferred to Circuit Court here from Saline County Monday.

Plaintiff in the action is the Kansas City Power and Light Company which seeks condemnation for easements to construct an electrical transmission line in Saline County. Defendants are J. A. and Neva B. Newell, Rural Route, Marshall; Ralph and Mildred Stauber, Webster Grove; Robert and Alice N. Tutt, Pasadena, Calif.; Dwight B. and Virginia Newbill, Kansas City; and John and Martha Newell, Kansas City.

The plaintiff requested the change of venue after they filed exception to the damages assessed by commissioners appointed by the Saline County Circuit Court. Records show the commissioners set damages at $2,600.

Airport

(Continued from Page One) call vote. Councilman Ed Neighbors' attention was diverted by Councilman R. E. Wells over the ordinance, and Neighbors' name was called three times and finally Mayor Studer remarked, "Mr. Neighbors will you vote?" to which Neighbors said "Yes".

After the ordinances were cleared, Mayor Studer immediately placed the name of H. Ray Anderson before the council for re-appointment as manager, and Jerry Self, as assistant. They were unanimously accepted.

The committee on public buildings and grounds is composed of R. S. "Bob" Wells, chairman, Edgar Neighbors and R. N. "Doc" Snively. This committee is to have the same duties in connection with the airport as it has with reference to other public buildings and grounds of the City of Sedalia.

At the close of the council meeting under good and welfare, Scruton took the floor and thanked the council members for "lifting a load off our shoulders," and continued, "gentlemen, I want you to know that it was on my personal insistence that I requested the mayor to place my name before you. I did not want him to place any other name before the council and later hear some of you say you couldn't vote for me because my name was not presented by the mayor."

In conclusion, he remarked, "Gentlemen, the cat is not on the Mayor's back, it's on yours."

As a result of the abolishing of the board, the council eliminated the three hold-over members, Dr. David Robinson, David Routsong and Gerald King.

The Council voted approval for Mayor Studer to sign a request for a grant from the Federal Government, through the Federal Aviation Agency for matching funds for $15,000 to lengthen the present hard surface runway. The city is to put up $15,000 and the Federal Government $15,000.

It was understood it was a request for the monies, and did not bind the city if it could not foresee the amount of the city's part in the budget.

The council appointed members to nine other non-paying boards of the city without question. They were:

Crown Hill Cemetery Board—Mrs. Eugene Miller, Alvin Heynen and Francis Rudd.

Board of Park Commissioners—Dr. A. R. Maddox, John Vandekamp and Blue Young.

Examining Board of Plumbers—Claude Lambirth and Leo S. basky.

Board of Public Works—William H. Bunn.

Result of Tax Cut Whets Appetite for New Revision

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—First economic fruits of the federal income tax cut are whetting some congressional appetites for further tax revisions. Suggestions range from comparatively minor tax relief to adopting levies until now untried in this country.

The House Ways and Means Committee this week is studying what to do about excise taxes or several substitute levies, including the value-added tax on manufacturing. This European variant could replace the excise or sales tax or even lower the corporate income tax.

The administration is reported studying the possibility of greater use of income taxes as an economic weapon against any future recession.

The argument is that if cutting individual and corporate income taxes by some $11.5 billion a year is good for this year's economy, why wouldn't other tax reforms be just the right medicine for future economic upsets? The likely stumbling block is that the administration would like the power to raise or lower income tax rates quickly at any sign of trouble and Congress is loathe to give up its right to make any changes, and at its own pace.

The House later this week will get around to a more specific and present matter — the extension for another year of the present excise or sales taxes on cosmetics, jewelry, handbags, furs and the like. These war-time taxes have been on a year to year basis.

Since they bring in a fairly regular and dependable revenue, while income tax receipts swing widely with economic ups and downs, the excise taxes have strong supporters in Congress and the administration.

And some would like to see more reliance on federal sales taxes and less on income taxes that may discourage investment.

One argument against this is that sales taxes should be left to the state and local governments. Another is that the levies penalize the industries whose products are singled out for the special taxation.

The newcomer to the debate this year is the European value-added tax. A sales or excise tax is based on the price at which a manufacturer sells his product, or on the price at which the ultimate consumer buys it from a store.

The value-added tax is based on the gross receipts or sales of the manufacturer minus the cost of goods or materials he purchased from others. The value he has added to these raw materials for the tax's purposes includes wages, salaries, rent, interest and profits.

The value-added tax is also paid by all the manufacturer's suppliers. Proponents stress that this puts the burden on all stages of production while the excise tax affects only the finished item. Also a low rate would bring in large sums to the Treasury.

Cagney Film Filled With Blood Scenes

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Television has settled down to a sleepy, summery pace, especially on weekends.

This reviewer was confronted with an hour or so to kill Sunday after NBC's "Meet the Press," when Barry Goldwater's campaign manager fielded tough questions very neatly. The networks offered only "Mr. Ed," "Lassie" and "The Bill Dana Show," and there is nothing more dreary than seeing a comedy for a second time.

Thus I found myself watching a 15-year-old James Cagney gangster movie. At one point, Cagney shot a man and then kicked him down a long flight of stairs, with the camera showing every bounce. At another he jammed a victim in the trunk of an automobile and casually pumped lead into it. The final shoot-out lasted at least 15 minutes.

The most violent scene I have encountered in this season's television output came in Sunday nights NBC "Show of the Week," a meandering tale called "Ambassador at Large."

It was a most uneven piece, extremely talky, with a few wild bursts of action.

The story centered on a fictitious South American country on the verge of revolution. A U.S. State Department troubleshooter sent to soothe the dictator arrives just as the rebel leader appears at embassy to ask political asylum.

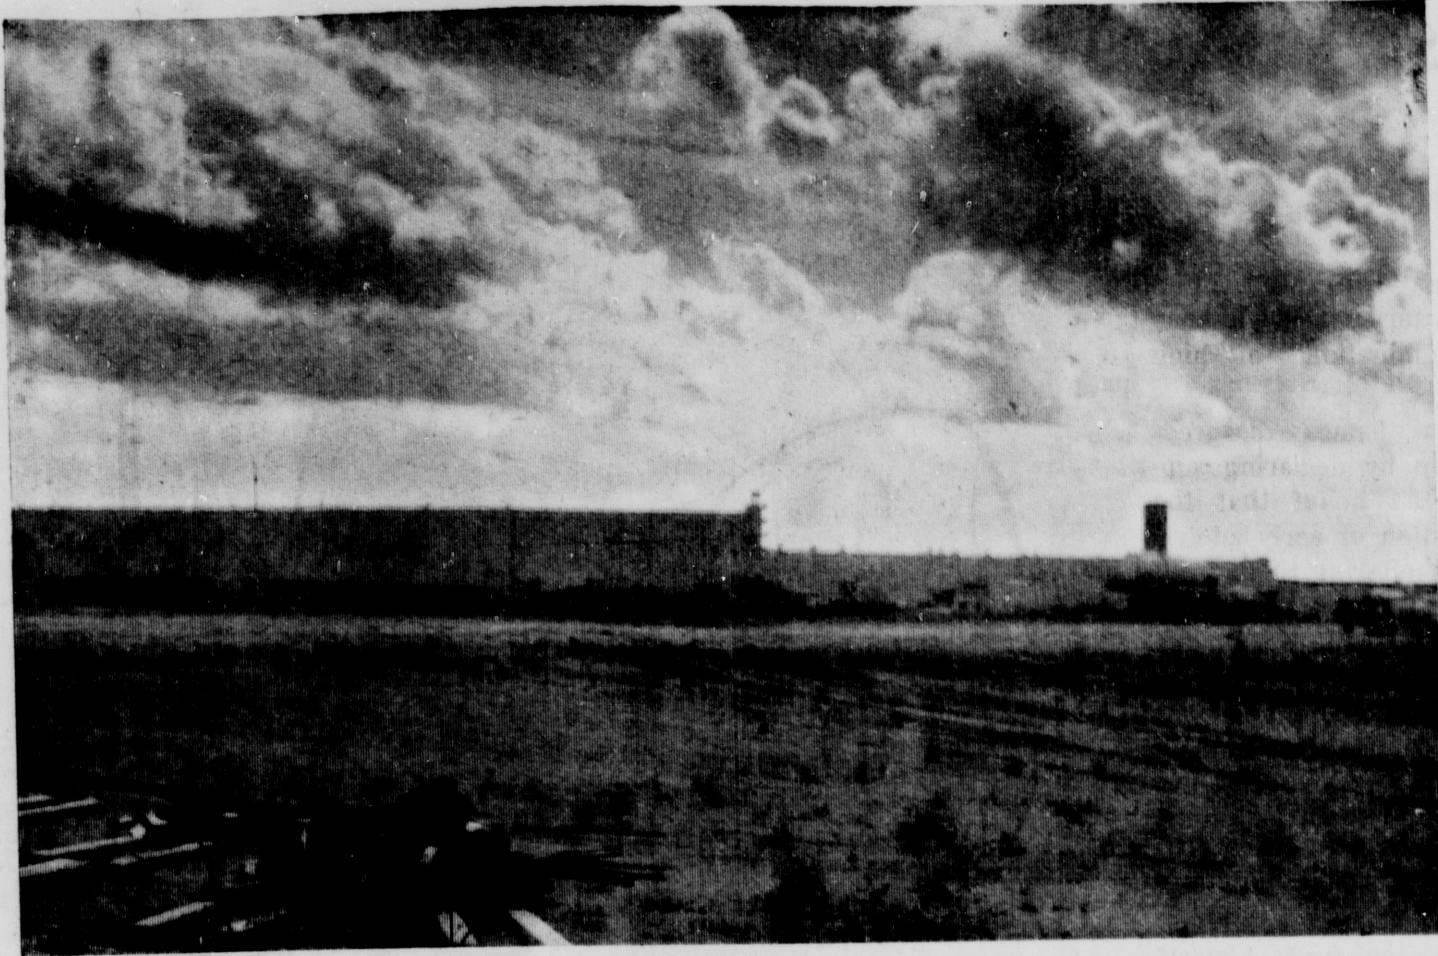

The play sought to explain the necessity for dealing with an official of whom our nation disapproved and also tried to point out the reluctance of the State Department men to send his enemy out to certain death.

The play solved their problem in a way that got the dramatist off the hook but was not satisfactory to the viewer. They spirited the rebel out of the embassy by a trick, but he was caught and killed later, thus placating the dictator.

The shocking scene was one that showed, in specific detail, the hanging of four rebel partisans. It was not necessary to the story.

Arthur Kennedy and Andrew Duggan played the State Department good guys. Peter Falk as the banana republic firebrand used such a convincing foreign accent that he was hard to understand.

Most unexpected event of the weekend was the act from the "Folies Bergere" which Ed Sullivan chose for his show Sunday night. Instead of a scantily clad chorus of mademoiselles doing a can-can, there were two men and a girl doing tricks on a slack wire. That's hardly what tourists attend the Folies to see.

He Will Decide Again

Social Researchers Study Who the American Voter Is

EDITOR'S NOTE—Who is the American voter? From 16 years of pre- and post-election interviews, analysts at the Survey Research Center of the University of Michigan have formed a picture of a man wrapped tightly by personal concerns, often totally indifferent to politics. Here, in the first of a four-part series, is a look at the American electorate.

By JOHN BARBOUR
ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Now the American voter enters the crisis time of a crisis year — still a bottled-up genie of strange and unknown fogs and vapors.

He is poked and prodded with quick, fever-chart interviews and primary elections — sometimes crude, sometimes sharp attempts to forecast how he will behave when summoned forth in the fall.

Yet he remains largely a matter of intuition, historical pattern and current superstition — defying everything but the most complex and deep investigations and analyses.

For 16 years he has been investigated by a battery of social researchers from the Survey Research Center of the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research. Their growing case history of the voter since 1948 — how and why he decides — yields a remarkable lens through which to view the enigmas of 1964.

Investigators have interviewed voters extensively every two years, before and after each election.

Their picture is far from complete — but it is among the clearest available for the man who, in November, decides the politically quick and the politically dead.

Who then is this marvel of modern democracy, this true paragon of power, this complexity of opinion and ignorance, this human, this American voter?

These things seem true, said Prof. Angus Campbell, director SRC:

— Since 1952 — and perhaps for 20 years before — the normal voting strength of the two parties splits each year at about 54 per cent Democratic, 46 per cent Republican. Before 1932, a year of political rebellion in a nation emerging from the depression, the voters had favored the Republican party for many years.

— The voter is not a man of issues.

— For some 75 per cent, party loyalty is important. They have pledged their allegiance by varying degrees of conviction to one party — and this prejudice often alters what these voters perceive of the issues.

— Roughly 45 per cent have prejudged in favor of the Democratic party, 30 per cent in favor of the Republicans.

— But for a full quarter of the American population, the parties mean little and they have little interest in issues, candidates or campaigns.

— They wander along in a sort of political sleep, and often when they do vote, they decide in the last hours before they go to the polls. Their reasons do not stand critical analysis, but then neither do those of many of their party allegiant neighbors.

Unity by Diversity An American Ideal

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Chief Justice Earl Warren told the 3,300-member Stanford University graduating class Sunday that the American ideal has been to bring about unity through diversity.

"All true union is the integration of diversity" and America's "pluralistic society is made up of people of diverse races, colors and religions."

The Chief Justice told the 73rd annual Stanford commencement audience of 12,000, "It has been hard for human beings to learn this lesson, and all through the ages they have paid a price for rejecting it. Group pride, group rapacity, the assertion of superiority, the fear of change, have always fought against it."

"Unity can only be brought about if it exists in the heart and mind of people and if all

Canadian House Opens Debate on New Flag

OTTAWA (AP)—The Canadian House of Commons opens debate today on Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson's proposal to give Canada its first official flag. Preliminary polls indicate Pearson can count on a slim majority for approval.

Pearson has staked his minority Liberal government on the emotion-charged issue. He has warned that if he is defeated, he may resign and force another national election.

The hotly debated "Pearson pennant," which the prime minister selected from more than 3,000 designs, is white with three red maple leaves in the center joined to a single stem. Narrow blue vertical bars at each end symbolize Canada's motto, "From Sea to Sea."

The resolution before Parliament would establish this as Canada's national flag and retain the British Union Jack as a symbol of Canada's allegiance to the Commonwealth.

French Leave Algeria

ALGIERS (AP)—Four ships left Algiers harbor today with the last French troops on general duty in Algeria. About 10,000 French troops remain, on garrison duty at Mers el Kebir in western Algeria and at bases in the Algerian Sahara.

Average lifetime of a U.S. one-dollar bill is about 18 months.

Junior High Isolation....

To have or not to have a junior high school is a controversial subject.

Comment in this column by a contributor last week was to the effect students who enter Smith-Cotton High school as eighth-graders do so with a feeling of awe and loneliness; their need to be accepted, liked and wanted is not satisfied; they are subjected to temptations outside the framework of their own class; that a junior high school would tend to correct these conditions.

Much to our surprise the first reply continuing this discussion came from a regular reader of this column in Kansas City — Robert C. Storey, municipal relations director, the Missouri Public Service Company. He enclosed two editorials from the New York Times with his personal notation:

"Having a degree in secondary school teaching and having experience in organized recreation, I was surprised at the Times' statements of junior high obsolescence."

On this subject the New York newspaper called attention to a position taken by the Junior High School Principals Association which maintains that during "this critical period, between late childhood and adolescence," a youngster "flourishes best in a separate educational and social environment . . . that he should be freed from the "restricting influences" of elementary school children and from "the domination" of high school students.

However, the Times disagrees with this position by declaring support today for the belief that the junior high isolation of early adolescents, far from sheltering them from unwanted influences, has aggravated the worst manifestations of teen-age insecurity. Also emphasized is a crucial fact that the junior high schools, unable to attract enough teachers to that level, have more out-of-license and substitute than regular teachers.

From these viewpoints, and others, we are inclined to agree with Mr. Storey who says that after additional consideration he, too finds himself agreeing that perhaps the isolation of adolescents by the junior high method may not work out too well.

Concerning adolescent acceptance he provides parenthetical philosophization: "With five children of my own, including two in junior high, I appreciate the concern about acceptance. However, there are all kinds of situations where most of us are either accepted or not accepted all of our lives. A few handle this well; most of us are just hit and miss."

Any rebuttal from those who think Sedalia should implement the isolation concept of a junior high school? GHS

Barry Causes Europeans to Shiver

By DREW PEARSON

ATHENS — I was in Nairobi, high in the African highlands near the equator, when the first returns of the Goldwater-Rockefeller fight in California came in. I was in Athens when the full impact of that battle began to be felt.

In general, Europe, Asia, and Africa are intent on their own problems. They are much more interested in whether Egypt will attack Israel, whether Kenya, Tanganyika, and Uganda can unite, whether Greece and Turkey will go to war over Cyprus, than in any election in the United States.

But suddenly they have become absorbed in the distant problem of whether a man named Goldwater will become President.

For the last twenty years, Europe and the contiguous parts of Asia and Africa have taken their leadership from the United States, but haven't always like it. They have balked, complained, sometimes thumb-nailed their respective noses at Uncle Sam. And of late some have applauded the tall gentleman in France when he kicked the shins of the tall gentleman in Washington. But now that the spectre of an American President who wants to pull the United States out of international leadership looms on the horizon, a slight shiver has gone down European spines. Suddenly they have realized that they have a vested interest in American elections. And a certain nostalgia has come back for American leadership.

To have the strongest Western power, a nation which with one push of the button can plunge the world into nuclear war, led by a man who might dismantle NATO, pull out of the United Nations, and who gives signs of being against the steam engine and the wheel, he has scared people stiff.

Helping Barry Win

What most Europeans don't realize is that they themselves have helped build up the man they so far. They have done this by cracking down on the United States and American business.

A case in point occurred recently in the administration of Premier George Papandreu of Greece, a 78-year-old liberal elected in a campaign during which he promised all things to all men. Among other things he promised to be completely independent of the United States — a nation which picked Greece up when it was prostrate and bleeding and put it on its feet.

To carry out this pledge, Premier Papandreu barred the Voice of America from Greek government airways. The American Ambassador, Henry Labouisse, long a friend of Greece, protested. During one session in which the ambassador was registering his protest, the Prime Minister turned to his son, Andreas Papandreu, and said: "Here is the Voice of America."

Andreas Papandreu, formerly a professor at the Universities of California and Minnesota, renounced his American citizenship to come back to Greece and run for Parliament. He is now a sub-cabinet member in his father's administration and, to prove he is not pro-American, leans over backward in the other direction.

When the head of the U. S. Information Agency, Vincent Joyce, called on Andreas to further protest the dropping of the Voice from the Greek government airways, Andreas had him expelled from Greece for allegedly being insulting. (Actually Joyce is restrained and courteous.) Inside reason he was barred: His wife is of Turkish descent.

All this builds up isolationist sentiment in the USDA and plays into the hands of Barry Goldwater.

Kicking TWA

Another case is the kick in the pants Greece recently gave Trans World Airlines. TWA was about the first line to pioneer air transportation to Greece. It has advertised the wonders of ancient Greece, induced hundreds of thousands of tourists to spend their money in Greece. However, TWA got notice the other day that its passengers with round-trip tickets, who stopped off in Greece, could not fly on to Israel, Egypt, or Italy on TWA on certain days of the week.

Instead they would have to fly on Olympic, the Greek air line, partially pioneered by Aristotle Onassis, the big shopping magnate who for two summers has entertained Jacqueline Kennedy.

Onassis has a unique record, ranging from his love affair with Maria Callas, the Greek opera singer, to his indictment by the United States for deceiving Uncle Sam on the purchase of government oil tankers. In order to get around the ban on tankers being sold to foreign citizens, Onassis set up a dummy corporation to cloak the purchase, got caught, and had to pay Uncle Sam $7,000,000 to get out of the criminal charge.

Onassis, a versatile gentleman, also got into the air line business, thanks to the former Premier of Greece, Constantine Caramanlis. But, unmindful of friendship, Onassis recently bet his political money on Caramanlis' opponent, Papandreu. And Premier Papandreu has now put the clamps on TWA in order to reward Olympic Airlines and Onassis.

All this may be good Greek politics, but it builds up the burning resentment of Americans against being pushed around; and it also builds for isolation and Goldwaterism.

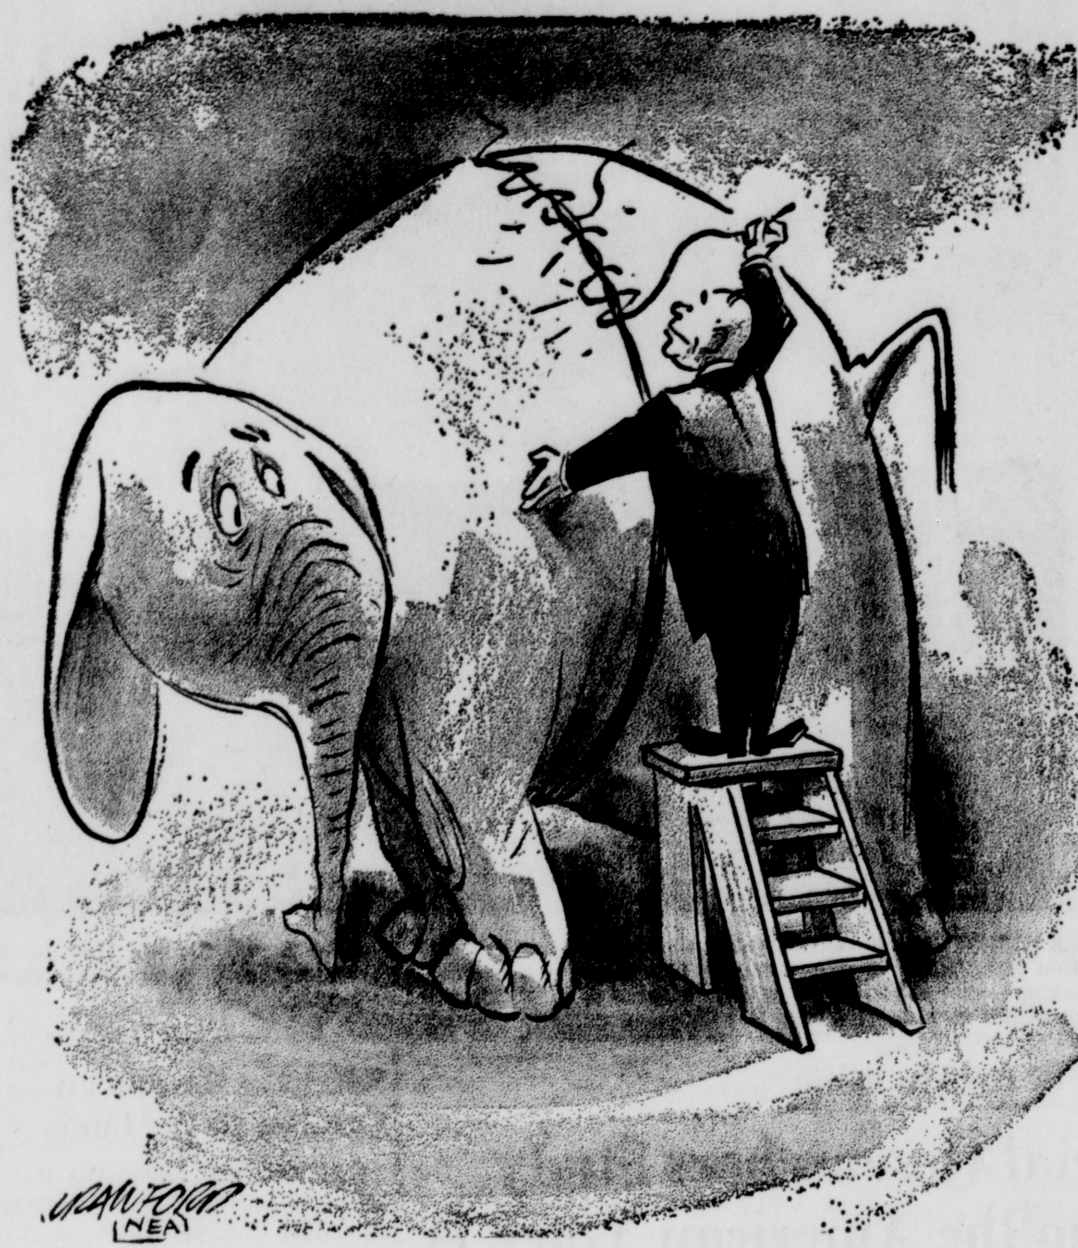

This is how Europeans are helping the man they don't want to see elected President of the United States.

Rewards for Telling

Children are discouraged by their parents and teachers from telling tales on their brothers, sisters and friends, but the Internal Revenue Service gives a reward to anyone who brings qualified information on tax evaders.

A total of $458,688 was paid by the government to 753 tax informers in 1963. As a result of this information the IRS recovered 12.7 million dollars in taxes, penalties and interest.

The Commerce Clearing House says informers, whose stories were confirmed, received an average of $609 last year. About 5,000 claims were filed but only 753 were accepted as qualified by the Internal Revenue Service.

Third Historic Step In Three Years

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court has now taken three historic steps in two years in a feud it had timidly avoided: voting in the states. The third time was Monday.

The court got biting criticism for all three decisions, and high praise. The country quickly adjusted to the first two and will to the third. This is an ABC on what happened and why, starting with the federal government as bac' ground.

In Congress each state under the Constitution is entitled to two senators. Its size or population doesn't count. It is different with the House of Representatives. There each state is entitled to at least one representative.

But any more than that must be based on its population in relation to the population of the other states since the total number of representatives for the 50 states is limited now to 435.

Every 10 years, after a census, the number of representatives is reapportioned among the states according to their population. So while each state, has two senators, the number of representatives varies by state populations.

The same general idea operated in the states, or was supposed to, in picking members of their legislatures.

Forty state constitutions required rearranging of their legislative districts every 10 years or so to provide their voters equal representations. But for generations some state legislatures ignored their constitutions. Examples: Tennessee and Alabama.

At the beginning of the century rural areas dominated state legislatures. Then population shifted from farms to cities, but there was no redistricting, rural areas were still in control and would do nothing to lose it.

An example of what this could mean: 40,000 people in one rural legislative district would have one state representative while 100,000 city people would also have only one. This meant one farmer's vote was equal to 10 city votes.

This meant unequal representation. But the rural - controlled legislatures would not change it. Appeals were made to the Supreme Court. It ducked saying it didn't want to get involved in politics. It said this last in 1946.

In 1962, in a Tennessee case, the court reversed itself and said federal courts would step in if necessary to order redistricting to provide citizens of a state more equal representation in legislatures.

It laid down a rule which has guided it since: one voter, one vote. Then on Feb. 17, 1964, the court went further, stepped into state arrangements for election of representatives to Congress from states' congressional districts.

It said congressional districts within a state must be based more truly than has been the practice on population. Monday the third step came when the court said state senators must also be elected on a population basis instead of by some old, fixed rule of state senatorial districts that gave unequal representation.

How could the court say state senators must represent, more or less, an equal number of a state's population when on the federal level each state is entitled to two U. S. senators, no matter how big or small it is, or its population?

Chief Justice Earl Warren, in a very lucid opinion, reasoned this way:

The federal system—two senators, regardless of population—was never intended to be a model for the states. This arrangement was the result of a compromise between large and small states when the country was created.

The big states, with more representatives, would have a larger voice in the House; but, to balance this off, every state was to have two senators.

But Warren said whereas each state is a so-called sovereign entity, the various subdivisions of a state can't be so considered. They are just subordinate instruments created by and within a state to carry out its functions.

He said the idea of equal representation in a state legislature for citizens would not mean much if it was equal in the House but unequal in the Senate since then one house could cancel out what the other wanted.

Highway Dept. Denies
New Gas Tax Planned

A spokesman for the Missouri State Highway Commission has denied published reports that another hike in the state gas tax money may be sought when the General Assembly convenes in Jefferson City next January. Currently, the state's share of the five-cent per gallon tax on gasoline and other motor fuel sold in Missouri is four cents. The remaining penny is divided between cities of more than 200 population and the various counties.

It is estimated that should another penny be tacked onto the fuel tax already being paid by motorists, the state would realize an additional $16,000,000 annually. And, highway officials have said they could use the money.

But, as one put it, this is not necessarily emphasizing or calling for the imposition of further taxes.

In a speech earlier this year, Chief Engineer M. J. Snyder of the Highway Department, noted that the state nets about $64,000,000 each year from its four-cent tax. However, of this amount, some $38,000,000 alone goes for just maintaining the present highways in usable condition.

"And," predicted Snyder, "Maintenance costs are going to continue rising in the future, thus decreasing proportionately the amount of funds available for construction and right of way purposes."

With the high cost of maintenance gobbling a great deal of the tax money available for construction, Snyder has repeatedly indicated that it's almost an impossibility for the state to keep up with its road building needs.

For instance, while an additional penny tax would provide the above mentioned $16,000,000 annually, the state actually would need an increase each year approaching $70,000,000.

In an effort to equalize the tax burden, the Highway Commission earlier this year contracted with a consulting engineering firm to conduct a study of Missouri's present methods of financing the highway program.

Results of the study will be made available to the General Assembly as a guide for developing financial arrangements for future highway work. In effect, the study is an effort in determining if all the taxes now imposed are carrying their fair share or if, possibly, one group of highway users is being overburdened.

Negro Vacationers
By-Passing Missouri

This is the vacation season and thousands of motorists are traveling through Missouri, either enroute to a resort in the state or merely passing through. And, many of these travelers are Negroes.

Many apparently are skirting the state in their travels because of a lack of accommodations available to them, according to the Missouri Commission on Human Rights.

In its annual report just issued, the commission recalled the new famous March on Washington of last August. "That this was a bi-racial march joined in by whites from all over the nation who recognize the legitimate grievances of the Negro is an indication of the distance we have come and the progress we have made," the report states.

And, it adds, a busload of Negroes from Missouri which went to Washington to join in the march, was granted service in each state through which it passed . . . except Missouri. The group, according to the report, was refused service at a Missouri restaurant on its return trip.

This, wrote Peter C. Robertson, the commission's executive secretary, "Is an indication of the distance we have yet to go and the problems we still face."

In an effort to confront these problems head on, Robertson is expected to ask the legislature for a variety of measures, including a request for additional operating funds for the commission.

State Awaiting Tax Decision

A ruling is expected some time around the first of September from the Missouri Supreme Court on a decision of a circuit judge that vending machine sales of less than 25 cents are not subject to the state sales tax.

In practice, this tax admittedly has been nothing more than a gross receipts tax on vending machine operators.

According to the Sales Tax Division of the Department of Revenue, if the court holds in favor of the vendors, the state stands to lose an estimated $100,000 each year.

Two suits currently are pending before the high court, one dating back to 1962 before the sales tax hike went into effect.

'The Mature Parent

He Wants 'Peaceful Home'

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: We have two boys, 5 and 7, who fight a lot, particularly before supper when my husband comes home. As I am busy with our baby girl as well as cooking at this time, I can't keep the boys quiet. But my husband says I should. If he comes home and finds the kids fighting, he either takes the car and eats downtown or starts bawling me out because I am spoiling the boys and don't give him a peaceful home.

Answer: Are you asking me to change your husband? I can't, you know. I can't go back into time and alter the circumstances which shaped his conviction that he's entitled to a "peaceful home" without lifting a finger to get one. I can do absolutely nothing about the mother who taught him that all he had to do to get what he wants is to ask a woman to give it to him. I can't do anything about the other thousands and thousands of little boys who are being taught the same manhood-destroying lesson by other Mother Goddesses in America's homes. It's how things are, God help us.

And if the girls they marry don't like it, there are only two things they can do about it: they can walk out on their child husbands or get along with them by becoming their mommies.

But they can't change them into men. That was the job of their husbands' fathers. Psychologists can sometimes do it. But generally speaking, childmen are too comfortable being children to be able to deliver the wish to grow without which psychoanalysts cannot work.

So, if you want to get along with yours, protect him against his quarrelsome children. Feed them before he gets home at night. Then tranquilize them with television until their bedtime. By filling their stomachs, you can divert their manly little energies to digesting instead of fighting—and so produce the unbothering, "peaceful" home that is demanded of you.

I think it's a dreadful solution. But then I am feeling sad today. Because I spent two hours in a police station last Sunday listening to a woman scream hate at a just-raped daughter of 16 while her husband stood by, silent, a little drunk, lifting neither voice nor finger in behalf of the exhausted, terrified child he had fathered. I came home to read your letter about another child-man who doesn't want to be bothered with his child.

The awful thing is that it's our sex which destroys the manhood of little sons. And today it doesn't help one bit to remember that mothers do it, not because they are bad, but because as little girls they never experienced the protective male strength of their fathers.

Each year, approximately 60,000 men die prematurely in the United States of heart attacks associated with cigarette smoking. The death rate from this cause is approximately equal to the estimated number of men who die prematurely of all other diseases associated with smoking, including lung cancer, according to the American Heart Association.

City Can Improve Condition By Attracting New Industry

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — A small Missouri town, with sympathetic and helpful leaders, can improve its economic position and stabilize its population by attracting new or expanded industry, a five-year study has shown.

The study was made by Midwest Research Institute for the state Division of Commerce and Industrial Development. The 96-page report covers such things as:

What industries seek rural community sites, what they expect of the community and what sort of industries the communities should look for.

The study covered the period of 1958 through mid-1963 in Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Iowa, Nebraska and Arkansas but stressed the situation in Missouri.

"Virtually every rural town is actively seeking some form of new economic activity to provide job opportunities for those leaving the farm," the report said.

"Unfortunately, the number of cities and towns competing for new industry far exceeds the number of new plants."

Still rural communities have, in recent years, been chosen by industry over metropolitan areas by a three to one margin, the study shows.

"Nearly one-half of the new plants locating in rural Missouri chose 'small' towns, while more than one-third chose locations in 'medium size' communities and less than one-fifth selected 'large' rural communities," the report said.

It characterized the small town as one of up to 2,500 population, medium size as between 2,500 and 10,000 population and large as from 10,000 to 50,000.

"Rural communities," the report said, "have a number of assets and liabilities which influence their ability to attract and hold industry and the future economic growth of each town will be determined in large measure by the community's ability to capitalize on its strengths and to minimize or correct its weaknesses."

"An available labor supply and competitive wage rates, proximity or ready access to markets, and good living conditions provide the best incentives for attracting industry. It is also significant that many industrial sites locating new plants in rural Missouri choose their home town as plant sites, emphasizing the importance of the local entrepreneur."

"Major limitations to industrial development in rural areas include inadequacy of transportation services and high freight rates, distance from markets and the lack of adequate buildings for manufacturing operations."

"An unfavorable attitude toward industry, prevalent in many small towns, was also cited as a drawback to a rural location."

The report said there were about 80 types of industry that look favorably on rural locations but these appeared to be the best bets for small Missouri communities:

Meat packing plants, poultry processors, cheese producers, condensed and evaporated milk plants, prepared animal feed producers, men's and boy's clothing plants, women's clothes manufacturing, wood products and wood furniture, gum and wood chemicals fertilizers, plastics, electronic components, boat building and repairing and sporting and athletic goods.

"The community must be aware of the patterns of industrial expansion taking place in the country and must concentrate its efforts on those industries which are best suited to the small town environment," the report said.

The four areas of industry which located most frequently in rural Missouri during the study period included:

Chemicals and allied products, food and kindred products; fabricated metal products, and apparel and related products.

Seventy per cent of new plants went to non-metropolitan areas while 50 per cent of plant expansions went to non-metropolitan areas.

Industry's preference for the small community lay in the fields of lumber and wood, apparel, leather and leather products, chemicals, food, transportation equipment and stone, clay and glass products.

The medium sized community attracted the industries or professional and scientific instruments, primary metal products, furniture and fixtures, electrical machinery, rubber and plastics, printing and publishing.

The large, 10,000 to 50,000, communities attracted petroleum refining and related products, paper products, fabricated metals, machinery and similar products.

Industrialists were asked why those chose a particular rural community as a plant site.

Twenty-nine per cent said they chose their home town, 16 per cent said the building was available, 15 per cent pointed to nearby raw materials, 10.5 per cent said the site was near the market or a central shipping point, 7 per cent said the business climate was good and 7 per cent said the wage scales and labor supply prompted the choice.

But they also listed labor supply and wage rates as the primary factors in choice of location if they should plan a move now.

"The majority of respondents reported that if they decided to move, they would locate in the same town, but would probably choose another site," the report said.

"Approximately 25 per cent of those responding stated that they would choose a location outside the state if the opportunity was given to them, while nearly as many 22 per cent preferred a location in a larger Missouri town. Only a small percentage (6 per cent) desired a location in a smaller community."

The industry heads said the things most desired from a community were home - town support, friendship and understanding, financing and help in finding a suitable plant site.

The report concluded "reliable manufacturers are not looking for handouts, but are good citizens and generally prefer to pay their own way."

"What they are looking for is fair treatment, adequate living conditions, good labor supply and friendly people who will maintain a good, stable government and a favorable environment in which to do business."

Two Annual Goof-Off Times In Average Business Office

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—There are two annual goof-off periods in the average business office—the winter doldrums and the summer doldrums.

We now are in the time of the summer doldrums.

Management bulletin boards bloom with exhortatory signs of the staff.

Appeals make very little impact on the hired hands.

The boss calls a conference of his executives for ideas to pep up the morale of the staff and put more incentive and drive in the organization.

In the middle of the conference he looks around and discovers half his executives are dozing and the other half are staring out the window with glazed eyes. The great summer letdown has hit them, too.

His anger gives way to a yawn. He has become a victim of the general listlessness himself. He thinks it would be nice to be out on a golf course.

There are several reasons why the work pace slows during the season of the summer goof-off.

The main one is that the staff is more interested in spending its own money than in making money for the firm. The warming weather fills them with a deepening laziness and drains ambition from their brains.

Vacations become the all-important topic. The coffee breaks and lunch hours get longer as the payroll peasants brag to each other about where they are going, or lie to each other about the fun they had at the place they've just been.

It is hard for an outside salesman to phone an order into the office. All the lines are tied up by employees calling travel agencies, arranging personal loans, or making long-distance calls to be sure that Lake Bide-a-wee has reserved a room for them for two weeks in August.

Another reason for the hot weather slump is that the office becomes pretty much like a battlefield aid station. Half the employees have become walking wounded.

If they don't come down with summer colds, they come to work bandaged from insect stings, romping through poison ivy, fishhook injuries, or cases of sunburn or general exhaustion.

Attempts have been made to solve the problems raised by the midyear letdown. Some firms simply close up shop for the duration.

But the only sure cure is to let the disease run its course. By Labor Day, everybody's health is so run down he is glad

Cards Still In a Tailspin;
Many Games Rained Out

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The St. Louis Sag apparently is contagious.

Jack Spring and Lou Brock caught it only a few innings after they joined their new Cardinal teammates Monday night.

The Sag also struck Glen Hobbie, another recent acquisition, as the Cardinals dropped a 9-3 decision to Houston for their fifth straight defeat and 17th in the last 23 games.

Spring and Brock, obtained in a six-player deal with the Chicago Cubs earlier in the day, arrived in the third inning of the Houston contest with the Cardinals leading 1-0. They barely had time to try on their new uniforms when they were thrust into action.

Spring was called upon to pitch in the seventh inning after the Colts scored four runs off Hobbie in the sixth for a 4-3 lead. The 31-year-old left-hander proceeded to give up four more runs, three of them unearned, one on a wild pitch.

Brock, an outfielder who figures prominently in St. Louis plans, batted for Spring in the eighth and struck out.

In his first two starts for the Cardinals, Hobbie allowed two earned runs and eight hits in 16 innings. The Colts, however, belted him solidly.

St. Louis, considered a prime contender for the National League pennant before the season started, began its tailspin May 23. At that time, the Cardinals were in third place, one game out of first.

One four-game and two five-game losing streaks later, they are in eighth place, seven games from the top and only one-half length ahead of the Colts.

Only three other games were played Monday. San Francisco nipped Cincinnati 6-5 in the other NL game while Chicago blasted Baltimore 9-1 and Washington edged Los Angeles 3-2 in the American. Rain washed out Minnesota at Cleveland.

Walt Bond drove in four runs with two singles, getting one each against Hobbie and Spring. Hobbie also was the victim of Bob Aspromonte's two-run homer, his fourth home run in a week.

Bob Skinner, acquired from Cincinnati during the weekend, singled home one of the Cardinals' runs.

Jim Hart's single scored Willie McCovey in the ninth inning and ended the Giants' see-saw battle with the Reds. The Giants trailed 3-2 until the eighth when they scored three runs, two on Cap Peterson's pinch triple.

The Reds tied the game 5-5 in the ninth with the help of Hart's error. A double by John Edwards scored one run while Bobby Klaus' sacrifice fly knocked in the other.

The White Sox stormed back into first place in the AL, erupting from the slump that held them to 10 runs in five losing games with the New York Yankees. They scored seven runs in the first inning as Pete Ward, Al Weis and Gerry McNetney each drove in two.

The White Sox, who broke a six-game losing streak, stand eight percentage points ahead of the Orioles with the Yankees another three points behind in third.

Don Rudolph, a 19-game loser last season, won his first game since being recalled from the minors recently. He needed

Rain Douses
Yanks, Mets
Play Monday

NEW YORK (AP)—The rain beat down relentlessly on the already soggy field making it impossible for the Yankees and Mets to play their heralded exhibition game Monday night.

But the two managers, Casey Stengel of the Mets and Yogi Berra of the Yankees, didn't seem to mind the weather. They sat side by side in the Mets' dugout conversing as in the old days when Casey was piloting the world champion Yankees and Yogi was his catcher and chief lieutenant.

They talked on even after the official announcement that the game had been postponed to next Monday night.

"Hey, Yogi," chided Stengel. "They tell me you were so anxious to beat us, you decided to come out of retirement and do the catching yourself."

"Naw," replied Berra. "Somebody musta been kiddin' you. I had Blanchard all ready to catch. Besides, the only reason I came to your dugout was because we beat the White Sox five straight. If they had beaten us five straight, you woulda had to come over to our dugout to talk to me."

"Yes, I saw something about that in the papers," said Casey, winking at no one in particular. "You fellas weren't very kind to my friend Al Lopez. They tell me Al was in such a state of shock after you beat him in that Sunday doubleheader, he stood frozen in the dugout and didn't move for several minutes."

Berra grinned. "It couldn't happen to a nicer guy," he said.

"Well, now that you're winning again," said Casey, "tell the truth, Berra. Weren't you a little bit nervous when you were losing all them games?"

"Naw, Case, honest," said Yogi. "I wasn't never nervous. I knew we'd come around sooner or later."

help from Ron Kline in the ninth after the Angels' Joe Adcock slammed his fourth homer in as many games.

The Senators broke a 1-1 tie in the seventh. Dick Phillips doubled home Jim King and scored on Ed Brinkman's single.

Lema Chance
For a Third Straight Win

WASHINGTON (AP)—Can a man win three golf tournaments in a row, especially if the third one is the U.S. Open?

Champagne Tony Lema's chances for a third straight were much talked about at Congressional Country Club as the elite of golf gathered for the big one, which starts Thursday. Lema won the recent Thunderbird and Buick opens.

One fellow who wasn't talking was Lema, himself. He skipped the first day of practice Monday entirely. A notorious worrywart, Lema may have spent the day getting his nerves under control.

He missed some steamboat weather that would have driven a sensible bedouin to shelter, and his camel, too, but all the other favorites in the field tested the layout.

Arnold Palmer said he was "getting seriously worried" about his putting—which is a good sign.

"I'm playing all right, but I'm putting very badly," Palmer said. "It's exactly the way I was before the Masters this year"—which he won with ease. Jack Nicklaus also maneuvered the ball well. Nicklaus and Palmer both came down last week for practice rounds.

"I played 50 holes and never got a birdie," Nicklaus said. "This time I got a birdie on the third hole. I'm improving."

Billy Casper, 1959 winner, played only nine holes in mid-day heat.

"I like this weather," said the round Casper, with a fat man's smile. "It's too hot to practice."

Palmer, asked about Lema's chances to win three straight, said: "It can be done. I did it, back in 1958. I almost won five straight."

"I won three, lost one in a playoff, and then won the Masters. And then I went into a long slump."

Another great golfer said it wasn't impossible.

"I won 11 straight," said Byron Nelson, now retired from competition. "Actually it was 12, but one of the tournaments wasn't official."

"At the end the pressure was so bad I could hardly lift my driver."

Cards Drop Decision To Houston Club

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Transplanted Chicago Cubs now with the St. Louis Cardinals made a big hit Monday night—with the Houston Colts.

Pitchers Glen Hobbie and Jack Spring and outfielder Lou Brock all failed to produce for their new team and the plummeting Cardinals dropped a 9-3 decision to the Colts in Houston.

Kansas City rested for its series opener in Detroit tonight when Diego Segui (4-6) and Ted Bowsfield (0-1) are scheduled to face Hank Aquirre (2-2) and Phil Regan (3-5) of the Tigers in a two-night doubleheader.

The Cardinals dropped two games below the .500 mark and 6½ games out of first place as they lost their fifth straight and 19th in 25 games. They are tied with Los Angeles for seventh place.

Hobbie, who has pitched fine ball since acquired from the Cubs several weeks ago, got off on the right foot.

The Cardinals took a 3-0 lead as Bill White drove in one run and scored another with a double and a triple and Bob Skinner and Curt Flood singled in tallies.

Hobbie gave up only one hit for five innings before Walter Bond singled home two runs and Bob Aspromonte homered for two more in a four-run sixth that doomed the Red Birds.

Spring, who arrived with Brock from the Cubs during the game, was touched with three hits and wild pitched a run home in the seventh as the Colts added four more markers.

Brock struck out as a pinch hitter in the eighth.

The Cardinals will try to win the third game of the four-game series tonight when Ray Sadecki (6-5) faces Bob Bruce (6-2) of the Colts.

Twins Act Fast

Cinderella Role
For Jim Grant

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Minnesota Twins, acting quickly just before the clock struck midnight, have tapped veteran right-hander Jim (Mudcat) Grant to play a Cinderella role in the American League pennant chase.

Balked in earlier attempts to bolster their pitching staff, the Twins completed an 11th-hour deal with Cleveland Monday just before the midnight trading deadline, acquiring Grant in exchange for pitcher Lee Stange, a player to be named later and an undisclosed amount of cash.

In a major six-player deal between National League clubs, St. Louis sent former 20-game winner Ernie Broglio, reliever Bobby Shantz and outfielder Doug Clemens to the Chicago Cubs for outfielder Lou Brock and pitchers Jack Spring and Paul Toth.

Two minor moves were made—Baltimore selling outfielder Joe Gaines to Houston and Pittsburgh taking pitcher Don Cardwell off the disabled list after sending pitcher Fred Green to the minors.

The Twins have been considered legitimate AL pennant contenders, but it was generally felt they needed more pitching strength. They had pursued Dean Chance of Los Angeles but were unwilling to break up their power trust by sending Bob Allison to the Angels.

Apparently rebuffed elsewhere also, the Twins moved in their minor league chain, farming out last year's ace reliever, Bill Dailey, and bringing up Bill Whitby, 4-3 at Charlotte.

Grant, 28, had been hit hard this season, starting nine games and completing only one. He had a 3-4 record with a 5.95 earned run average, but is an established major league starter of known quality with a 64-59 lifetime record entering this season. He was 13-14 last year.

Stange, a promising right-hander in his fourth season in the majors, impressed last year with a 12-5 record and a 2.62 ERA. This season, however, he had a 3-6 mark with a 4.73 ERA.

Grant figures to take his place with Camilo Pascual, Jim Kaat, Jim Roland and Dick Stigman in the Twins' starting rotation.

The key men in the St. Louis-Chicago trade were Broglio and Brock, who fills the Cardinals' need for additional outfielding help.

Broglio, a 28-year-old right-hander, apparently became surplus when the Cardinals acquired pitcher Glen Hobbie from the Cubs in an earlier trade. Broglio was 21-9 in 1960 and had an 18-8 record last year, but was 3-5 this season with a 3.53 ERA.

Brock, a speedy 24-year-old flychaser who bats left-handed, is in his fourth season in the majors. He hit .258 last season with nine homers and 37 runs batted in. He was hitting at a .257 clip for the Cubs with two homers and 14 runs driven in.

Barbara Davis took the win for the Cardinals, striking out two opposing batters. Susan Barnes took the loss for the Fillies, striking out six Cardinal batters.

Upstarts In NCAA Play Final Round

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Maine's pressure loving upstarts are in the NCAA baseball final round, thanks to a stringbean sophomore pitcher with "poise, courage, great control and enough english to offset his lack of a fast ball."

His name is Joe Ferris and the words are those of the coach, Jack Butterfield, a former pitcher at Maine. Ferris is a 6-foot righthander who ousted Southern California's defending champions 2-1 Monday night in the fourth round.

Next foe for the giant killers is pitching-rich Missouri, which handed Minnesota its first defeat 4-1 by holding the Big Ten champs to one hit. Minnesota then drew a bye.

The winner of the Missouri-Maine game will face Minnesota for the championship Wednesday night.

Ferris has pitched through the district playoffs and the College World Series with a plastic cast protecting two broken bones in his left wrist. But he stopped Seton Hall 5-1 in the first round, saved a 4-2 upset of Arizona Saturday, then went the route against proud USC.

He was mobbed by his teammates after the final out and the crowd of 9,174 gave their adopted favorites a rousing cheer.

Maine's success in its first major NCAA tourney in any sport has Orono, a town of about 6,000 in an uproar.

"We were picked fifth in our league because we had so many sophomores," Butterfield said. "We were underdogs against Northeastern in the district at Fenway Park in Boston but won 9-5 and 4-2."

"In this tourney we've had three errorless games out of four—not bad for some country boys," the coach said.

Maine will use senior Dick Dolloff, 4-3 against Missouri's talented sophomore, Dennis Musgraves, 6-2, tonight. Keith Weber and Jim Nelson haked Minnesota with one hit, a first inning single. Weber walked 12 in his 6 1-3 innings and Minnesota left 16 on base. Bob Price drove in the first two Missouri runs and was 3-for-4.

THE HARD-HITTING WAY

Camera To Prevent Any Controversy

NEW YORK (AP) — There should be no controversies over photo finishes in the Olympic Games at Tokyo.

Anticipating hair's breadth finishes both on the cinder tracks and on the water, the Tokyo Olympic Organizing Committee has adopted an intricate device to settle all such issues.

OMAHA (AP)—Paul Maloney of the Greeley (Colo.) Tribune, Mary Garber of the Winston-Salem (N.C.) Twin-City Sentinel, and Joe Heiling of the Austin (Tex.) American-Statesman were repeat winners in the annual judging of stories and photographs by an American Association of Baseball Coaches panel.

The 1964 winners were announced today by the five judges, who viewed the exhibits at Creighton University.

Maloney won the award as the best photographer of college baseball. He won the top award in 1961 and this was the fifth consecutive year he has placed in the judging.

Miss Garber won the award for the best feature in a newspaper with less than 50,000 circulation. She also won the top award in 1958.

Heiling's award was for the top news story in papers with less than 50,000 circulation. He

It is a camera which not only photographs the participants flashing across the finish line—whether they be speedy runners or eight-oar shells—but also records the time to the one-hundredth of a second.

This is a timing gadget, conceived and perfected by the Japanese after years of research. It will mark the first time in the history of these ancient Games that instruments of non-European manufacture will be used.

The photo finish equipment is set up just before and just over the finish line. The movie camera is installed on a line with the tape.

The camera has two taking lenses—one for filming the contestants, the other mounted at a right angle to record the time.

The design makes it possible to photograph both the figures of the competitors and time on the same picture.

The exposed film is developed in seconds and examined through a viewer. Then the negative is enlarged and printed within 30 seconds for distribution to the judges and reporters.

Thus there are no long waits for determining the winners of controversial races.

Washington Capsules

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson will have talks next week with the prime ministers of Greece and Turkey on the Cyprus crisis.

Johnson announced Monday that George Papandreu, the Greek prime minister, had accepted his invitation to come here to discuss the savage dispute between Greek and Turkish Cypriots. He will be here June 24-25.

Turkey's prime minister, Ismet Inonu, had previously accepted Johnson's invitation. He is scheduled to arrive June 21 and begin talks the next day.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has denied allegations that American pilots are flying Congolese planes against rebels in the Kivu Province.

"No U.S. combat personnel are in the Congo, nor are any envisaged there," a State Department spokesman declared Monday.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk briefed the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Monday on the Southeast Asia crisis.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., a critic of U.S. policy there, described the two-hour closed session as "bloody."

Morse told newsmen he cautioned Rusk that "you are headed straight for war with China. If that happens the world will hate us for 500 years."

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has made Romania eligible to buy American products and services on credit.

As required by law, Johnson notified Congress Monday he had determined "it is in the national interest" for the Export-Import Bank to issue guarantees in connection with sales to the Communist country.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration is studying the design of an expandable "flying saucer" 267 feet in diameter that could be used as a communications satellite.

The agency said the concept had passed its first crucial test in the successful inflation of a 20-foot model in a vacuum chamber at NASA's Langley Research Center, Hampton, Va.

Discuss Gathering Of Lunar Samples

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The mystery of how the earth and moon were formed could be cleared up with samples from the lunar surface.

How to select these samples and bring them back to earth for study were being discussed today by 110 scientists in a manned lunar exploration symposium at the Manned Spacecraft Center.

The group on Monday heard space agency scientists explain the limitations and restrictions on the potential experiments.

An engineer in a spacesuit showed how an astronaut's movements would be restricted in a fully inflated suit, and movies were shown of the difficulty an astronaut would have in the one-sixth gravity on the moon.

X15 Control Test During High Ride

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — A rejuvenated X15 rocket plane went for a high ride but didn't fly Monday.

The research craft never left its B52 mother ship in a test designed to check control systems which cannot be tested on the ground. The craft was modified after a crash landing in 1962 and is now designated as the X15A2.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I was particularly interested in the letter from the young man who wanted to know what you thought about having his mother dug up because he heard from relatives that she had been buried in expensive jewelry.

My nephew had an experience which might throw some light on this subject. His young wife died suddenly. He was so grieved that he gave no thought to the wedding ring or the wrist watch she was wearing at the time of the accident. When she was laid out the wrist watch and wedding ring were on her hand.

After the funeral the mortician handed my nephew an envelope and told him it contained his wife's jewelry. My nephew said, "I thought she was buried with it."

The mortician replied, "It is against the law to bury people in jewelry."

So, if a loved one is thought to be buried in jewelry perhaps it would be wise to check with the undertaker and find out what he did with it.—MAY JUSTICE BE DONE.

Dear May: Each state has its own burial laws. My Illinois experts tell me there is no law in this state which prohibits burying a person in jewelry. In fact, a Chicago funeral director was buried recently wearing his diamond cufflinks because his wife requested that this be done.

Dear Ann: I am almost out of my mind with worry. My husband and I (both 55) raised a lovely daughter. She was married eight years ago to a young man who seemed superb in every way. They now have three youngsters.

Last week my daughter sobbed out her story. She is at the breaking point. Her husband has been abusive to her from the start. He has had one affair after another and she has lost all love and respect for him. He refuses to get outside help and the poor girl is going to pieces.

She is not a complainer, Ann. I hadn't heard one word about her trouble until now.

God knows I don't want to interfere with her life but I can't bear to see her go on this way. Do I dare invite her and the children to come home? We live in a neighboring city. It would not be easy but we could manage.

I haven't said anything to my husband. I wanted to get your opinion first. Help, please.—HEARTSICK.

Dear Heartsick: I am opposed to "inviting" married children to "come home." Many marriages might have been saved if the wife had no alternative but to stay put and work out her problems.

Don't invite your daughter to come home, but let her know if life becomes intolerable, or if her husband continues to abuse her physically, she and the children have a place with you.

Dear Ann Landers: I am the fifth grade English teacher at Stewart School in Cincinnati. As an experiment I read to my class the letter from your column about Jerry, who was put in charge when the teacher left the room.

Two of Jerry's best friends behaved badly. When the teacher returned she found the room in an uproar. Jerry reported his friends as the trouble-makers and they lost their privileges for one week. The friends became angry with Jerry for "snitching." He wanted to know if he was in the right or not.

I am sending you the responses of my fifth-graders. As you can see every student agreed with your advice. Interesting?—E. R.

Dear E. R.: Very! I was further pleased to see that your fifth graders can also spell and put sentences together properly. Cheers for Stewart School in Cincinnati!

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Nixon Would Run If Delegates Reach Deadlock

CHICAGO (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, declining to state his choice among contenders for the Republican presidential nomination, says he would accept if delegates selected him to break a convention deadlock.

The former vice president, however, said Sunday the race is between Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania and that he doesn't see a "strong third force" that could deadlock the convention.

In a television interview on "Forum," a program broadcast locally in Chicago by station WKBK, Nixon said:

"In the event that the convention fails to find in any of the present candidates a man who can unite the party at the convention, and if the party leaders turned to me, then I would undertake the responsibility of the nomination and I would conduct an extensive campaign.

"That conclusion has not been reached, and I do not believe it will be. I think that one or the other (Goldwater or Scranton) will be the candidate."

Canadian Tariff System Luring Auto Part Firms

ST. LOUIS (AP) — United States auto parts manufacturers are being lured to Canada by a new Canadian tariff system, Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., said Sunday.

Symington said that a Canadian tariff plan, which went into effect last Nov. 1, gives rebates on parts that Canadian auto manufacturers must import. The tax rebate, Symington said, increased the export of other car parts made in Canada.

The Senator spoke to Local 25 of the United Auto Workers at St. Louis. He said he was sure the U.S. Treasury Department would act to stop the advantages of the new tariff system. He said he had heard reports that Canada planned to expand the tariff rebate plan to include that country's aviation and chemical industries.

At least one U.S. auto company, Studebaker, which moved to Canada, listed the rebate system advantages as one of the reasons for the move, Symington said.

Caesar Has Comments About TV

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Caesar was dressed in his underwear and robe and he was reading Caesar's commentaries.

The author was Julius, the reader Sid, and it was no gag. The comedian was resting in his Chateau Marmont suite before the evening performance of "Little Me." It happens that he likes to relax by reading history and the fact that he was reading a fellow Caesar—no relation he assured—was accidental.

Sid had some commentaries of his own to make about such matters as television's present state and the lonely life. The latter he does not like.

"I've been away from home six months and it's awful," he confessed. "My wife and kids will be coming out from our home at Kings Point, N.Y., next week, and thank heaven! I really missed them."

"My wife usually came out to every city I played in the show, but I only saw the kids at Easter. I talked to them two or three times on the telephone, but you run out of things to say when you've been away that long."

More than most bigtime comedians, Caesar has been able to enjoy being a homebody. For 15 of the last 17 years, he has starred in television. Being a pioneer thereof, he is understandably concerned over the condition of the industry.

"Costs are getting out of this world," he lamented. "They keep going up and up until it gets dangerous to attempt anything that isn't tried and true."

All this doesn't mean that Caesar wouldn't go back to the medium that made him famous. He would — if the right setup came along.
